In the memorable attack of Gen. Wolfe on Quebec, in the summer of 1759, that officer landed on Orleans Island, below the city, from which position he captured Point Levi, which enabled his guns to destroy many buildings in the city, but the distance was still too great to affect the fortifications. Wolfe then landed on the opposite bank, below the town, to seize the passage at Montmorency and bring on an action, but the French were strongly posted, and the impetuosity of his advance force in rushing to the attack before the support was ready obliged Wolfe to fall back, with a loss of 500 men, on the 31st of July. The decisive battle on the plains of Abraham, which procured for Wolfe death and victory, occurred on the 13th of September.

LORD NORTH'S PROPOSALS.

LORD NORTH'S conciliatory proposals, which had been recommended to the consideration of Congress by the assembles of Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, were referred to a committee, and on July 31, 1775, Congress pronounced the declarations of the ministry unsatisfactory, unsafe, vague and dangerous. After voting money to pay troops, Congress took recess.

A CURIOUS SUPERSTITION.

The month which closes today was the subject among the Romans of a curious superstition. They conceived that the preëminent warmth and the diseases and other calamities peculiar to this month, were somehow connected with the rising and setting of the star Canicula (Little Dog) in coincidence with the sun. They accordingly conferred the name of dog days upon the period between July 3 and July 23. The absurdity of the Roman notion is evident from the fact that Canicula does not now rise in coincidence with the sun until the latter part of August, while of course the days between July 3d and August 11th are what they have ever been. On account of this Heliacal rising of Canicula growing later and later every year, it is late in the day for the theory the star would in time come to be charged with the snow and frost of winter. Yet the "dog days" continue to be a phrase; and probably will long continue so. It is doubtless, under this lingering notion of the effect of extreme heat on canine flesh and blood, the dogs are muzzled about the middle of July.

IGNATIUS LOYOLA.

Ignatius Loyola, founder of the order of the Jesuits, died at Rome July 31, 1556. He was a Spanish soldier and Hidalgo, and while engaged, in 1521, in the defense of Pamplona against the French, a cannon shot fractured his right leg and a splinter injured his left. He was carried to the neighborhood of a cave of Loyola, where he lay six months, during which he lay so weak upon his couch he tried to while away the time by reading the "Lives of the Saints." He was only 30. He had "a wild life, and thirsted for militant glory. Incapacitated for the duties of a soldier, he asked himself why he should not become a saint, and he resolved to try, and mark himself out for his friends, he made a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, reaching the holy city on the 4th of September, 1523. Retreating to Spain, he worked himself laboriously through a full university course. His austere and rebukes upon his ecclesiastics often got him into trouble. In the chapel of Montmartre, Paris, he

AN AFFECTING DEATH.

Pope, Gay and Thompson have
 ing incident which occurred on July 1718—the instantaneous killing of two rustic lovers by a lightning stroke
 Stanton Harcourt, nine miles west Oxford, England. John Hewit was youth of 25 and Sarah Drew a comely maiden of the same age. Their martual affection had been the talk of the neighborhood for nearly a year, and that very morning they had obtained the consent of their parents. The wedding was to take place the next week. While the happy pair were walking in the field about 3 in the afternoon a violent thunderstorm arose, and Sarah swooned on a heap of barley. John raked together two or three heaps to protect her from the storm. Suddenly there came a terrible crash, and every one was anxious to get out of the field. John ran to the spot where the lovers were, and examined they perceived the barley was in a smoke, and John with his arms about Sarah's neck and the other her

The famous encyclopedia, the first volume of which appeared in 1751, a work which attracted such wide attention throughout Europe, was produced under the editorial supervision of D'Alembert and Diderot, the latter of whom was born about 1712, and died July 31, 1784. He was one of the master spirits of that body of men known as the "enlightenment," and Voltaire, who under the leadership of Voltaire, sowed the seeds of the French Revolution.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

George Longhead's wife presented him with a ten-and-a-half pound son last Monday.

There are undelivered telegrams at the Western Union Telegraph office for Mrs. J. P. Russell, Maurice Dore and Mrs. G. L. Brinkman.

A team attached to a wagon ran away at the corner of Tenth and Main streets yesterday afternoon, wrecking the vehicle and bruising up the driver considerably.

Mrs. Belson, Kellogg, Iowa, writes to THE TIMES inquiring for a brother, Lionel Belson, supposed to be in Los Angeles. Information should be addressed to her.

C. C. Allen of THE TIMES has been tendered the position of dramatic editor of the Catalina Jewish. His criticisms will be an important feature of the newspaper.

Before Judge McKinley yesterday, Harry Jordan, charged with robbing Mrs. Cuddeback, pleaded not guilty to the charge, and his case was placed on the trial calendar.

J. M. Harris, a saloon-keeper on First street, was yesterday arrested by Officer Bevan for running his place without a license. He deposited bail and was released from custody.

Russell, Morris & Co., of Long Beach have issued a very interesting pocket map of that beautiful seaside resort; also a printed guide with a list of the most important business houses at that place.

The following were the arrivals at the County Jail yesterday: J. A. Cole, libel; and John Conroy, robbery; and George Wyatt, misdemeanor, Pomona. At 7 o'clock last evening there were 96 prisoners in the tanks.

A correspondent complains that some of the watering-cart drivers seem to take special pleasure in sprinkling passengers on the street cars as they pass. The conductors say quite a number of complaints are made on that score.

The hearing began yesterday afternoon before the County Board of Equalization, on citations from the board to persons whose assessments have been raised, to show cause, if they have any, why the assessments shall not be raised.

John Conroy, arrested several days ago for complicity in the Day highway robbery, was yesterday brought before Judge Owens, and, by agreement, his examination was continued until Saturday morning. In the meantime he was remanded to the County Jail.

The regular weekly meeting of the Police Commissioners will be held in the Mayor's office this afternoon. In the absence of Mayor Hazard, who is out of the city, Mr. Dexter will probably preside. The Fire Commissioners will meet, as usual, at 10 o'clock this morning.

The Moore-Anderson damage suit was resumed yesterday in Department No. 2 of the Superior Court, and several witnesses were examined. Nothing particularly new was elicited. The case will be concluded today, nearly all the testimony for the defense having been introduced.

Ike Ernst, a member of a respectable family living on Temple street, has been on a protracted spree, and yesterday afternoon went to his home, where he raised such a disturbance that it became necessary to call in an officer, when he was removed to the police station and locked up.

The other day F. Custer of the Southern Pacific Company lost his trip passes over the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe. They will be of no use to any one but himself, and he will be thankful for their return. They can be left with General Manager J. A. Muir at the Wolfkill depot.

The G. A. R. Council of Administration met at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in room 81, Bryson-Bonebrake block, but as Department Commander Gard was absent from the city, no business of importance was transacted. All arrangements for the encampment at San Pedro are about completed.

Information was filed yesterday in Department No. 6 of the Superior Court against James Hedges, charged with offering to bribe a witness; Manuel Rodriguez, charged with larceny; and Charles Rainer, charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Their arraignment was fixed for August 5th.

Last night, about 7:30 o'clock, a telephone alarm was sent in, saying that the Chinese Theater was on fire. The engines turned out, but on going to the place everything was found to be moving along as usual, and it was decided that any alarm had been sent in from that place. Chief Strohm will look into the matter.

By an error Col. Fulton was yesterday spoken of as superintendent of the Downey-avenue car line. This was a mistake. J. C. Robinson is the general superintendent of all the lines owned or operated by the cable company in Los Angeles, of which this line is one, and Col. Fulton is only the manager for this section.

Pink & Gomer, the dog killers who made away with a canine in their shop on Third street, Monday afternoon by shooting the animal, were yesterday brought before Judge Owens and Gomer was fined $5, it being shown that he fired the fatal shot. Pink, having only witnessed the execution and taken no active part, was discharged.

A man suffering from delirium tremens created something of a sensation on Pearl street a few nights ago by his wild antics. He thought that the electric light was Jesus Christ, and almost broke his neck in trying to climb to glory. His friends finally sent for a policeman, with him and the lunatic was got to his home and put to bed.

The preliminary examination of Mr. and Mrs. Harris, charged with black-mailing Mrs. Conner a few days ago, will be resumed before Justice Savage this morning. It was continued last week until today, and the first thing to be decided this morning will be a motion by the defense to dismiss the case. Justice King, who was sitting when the case came up at first, will preside this morning in place of Justice Savage.

A youth about 15 years of age named Kennelback, who has been driving a team for a contracting firm at work grading Alabama street, was run over yesterday afternoon and had one of his legs severely injured. He was removed to a hospital, his parents on Diamond street and Dr. Lasher summoned, who attended to his injuries. The boy will be confined to the house for some time. The accident was caused by the team running away.

Mozart's Popular Store Removed To 140 South Spring street, where they will continue their usual low prices for ladies' and children's Underwear, Suits, Hosiery, etc. Mozart are manufacturers and none can compete. Dressmaking a specialty. Perfect fitting in all cases guaranteed. Will make stylish suits complete for $3. See our new Millinery. Please remember that our regular prices are below "special sales." The Bargain-givers of the State—Summer Dress Goods of Great Value at Extremely Low Prices.

PEOPLE'S STORE.

LOS ANGELES, July 31, 1929.

Do you want bargains? Well, if so, you will get them today in such form that you have never seen before; no, nor ever heard of. We feel proud of the list we present you today. We know every one will speak of them, as the list is larger, the values greater, and, without a doubt the greatest effort any house has ever attempted. We want you to read each line, one after the other, carefully, and then you will pronounce us the bargain-givers of the State. We excel in this so far above all others that you cannot compare us with any other house this side of the Rocky Mountains. It has become the byword: "The People's Store Bargains." For instance, to-day we have a line of:

Mull and lawn Dress Patterns at $2.49 a suit. This line consists of ten yards of material and nine yards of embroidery, four and a half yards of wide half flouncing and four and a half yards of medium to match, white, cream or colored, all for $2.49; some worth as high as $5. Nothing richer, nothing hand-somer in the market for three times the price.

CLOTHING DEPARTMENT. Men's sack Suits, for beach or hunting, $2.75 a suit; the making is worth more than the price of the suit.

Men's frock Suits, in gray mixtures, a neat business suit, $4.95. Boys' blue Sailor Suits, all sizes, 98c a suit. A few more pairs of men's light-colored Pants at $1.75; worth $3.

Medical.
DR. M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D., M.C.P.S.O.
Specialist in all the various diseases of the Head, Throat and Chest.

Including the Eye, Ear and Heart.
OFFICE: In the Hollenbeck Hotel, Cor. Spring and Second Sts., Los Angeles, Cal.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved medical inhalations and the Combined Oxygen treatment, which has such a world-wide reputation in lung and nervous affections.

BRONCHITIS.
Acute Bronchitis. This is an inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the bronchial tubes, and is one of the most common of all the pulmonary diseases. It is a dangerous disease, as it prevents the oxygenation of the blood, and in many cases, particularly after it passes into the chronic stage, the substance of the lungs becomes seriously injured, giving rise to what is very properly called bronchial consumption.

In the acute form there is a sense of tightness or pressure across the chest, with considerable wheezing, severe cough and expectoration. This is at first a white glairy mucus, which after a time becomes purulent. The patient in some cases is obliged to sit up in bed, the oppression across the chest is so great, and the skin is clammy and prostration rapidly sets in, and in fatal cases there will be muttering delirium, coma and death.

Chronic Bronchitis. Chronic Bronchitis is also an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the bronchial tubes. But this form more often occurs later in life. When a cold settles on the lungs, the disease either ends in bronchitis or pneumonia. If it ends in bronchitis it usually passes off as a cold in the chest, and the patient does not feel entirely well. He feels tired and languid, and is incapable of taking his usual amount of exercise, and experiences a shortness of breath, with more or less warmth in the palms of his hands. Soon after this a cough appears, accompanied by an expectoration of thick mucus, followed by a hectic flush, loss of flesh and strength, and night sweats continue, when the patient assumes all the appearance of a consumptive. A shortness of breath, with more or less warmth in the palms of his hands. Soon after this a cough appears, accompanied by an expectoration of thick mucus, followed by a hectic flush, loss of flesh and strength, and night sweats continue, when the patient assumes all the appearance of a consumptive. A shortness of breath, with more or less warmth in the palms of his hands. Soon after this a cough appears, accompanied by an expectoration of thick mucus, followed by a hectic flush, loss of flesh and strength, and night sweats continue, when the patient assumes all the appearance of a consumptive.

In the latter stages of the disease the mucous membrane of the larger bronchial tubes softens, while in the smaller tubes and air cells of the lungs the mucous membrane becomes congested and inflamed. There are no cavities or tubercles in the lungs, but merely a wasting away of the larger bronchial tubes, and death takes place from obstruction of the bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs. The patient dies from exhaustion and a suffocation, being unable to expectorate the mucus which accumulates in the passage leading up to the lungs, which in some cases is sticky and small in quantity, but more commonly copious, of a light straw or yellowish green. Often times streaks of blood make their appearance in the mucus, and at times there is a discharge of small amounts. Persons thus afflicted are very liable to take cold, at which time the mucus becomes clear and frothy, and it is not uncommonly the case that the patient dies in one of these attacks. Inhalation is the only system which will cure these diseases, and the two forms are entirely different. In the one we must stay the irritation, while in the other we must stimulate a healthy action.

This will convince us of the necessity of fully understanding the system of Medicated Inhalations in the treatment of the various diseases of the pulmonary organs, for the properly applied there is no system of medicine so well adapted to the case as this. Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance from business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless, unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing can do with the same success.

The very best reference from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE. Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases, may do so at my office for consultation and examination, but if it is possible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions.
